[International Participation] Taiwan, US, Japan, and EU Representatives Confer on Clean Energy (Chinese Version)

CNA (2011/05/28) Climate Parliament and Taipei Representative Office in Belgium together held a conference on clean energy on May 27 and 28 at European Parliament, about one hundred significant figures from Taiwan, the U.S., the E.U., Japan, etc., have attended the event.

The conference was hosted by the Senior Member of Parliament and the Chair of Climate Parliament Graham WATSON. About one hundred political, industrial and non-governmental organization representatives from the U.S., Japan, the E.U., India, Taiwan, etc., were invited to the event.

Deputy Director of the Green Energy and Environment Research Laboratories of Industrial Technology Research Institute Chern-Lin CHEN and some industrial representatives presented the development of solar power and the government's subsidies of the green energy research in Taiwan at the conference, which was followed by an enthusiastic response from the audience. This has succeeded in making an exchange platform on green energy between Taiwan and the international society.

Other significant figures attending the conference included Connie HEDEGAARD, European Commissioner for Climate Action in the European Commission, who gave the opening address to the conference, and Jim MCDERMOTT, the U.S. Congressman, Yoriko KAWAGUCHI, former Foreign Minister of Japan, Taro KONO, Japan's Member of Parliament, Sanjay JAISWAL, India's Member of Parliament.
