[Academics] ISSCC Selects 19 Research Papers from Taiwan (Chinese Version)

CNA - Focus Taiwan (2012/11/22) Nineteen research papers from Taiwan's business and academic sectors have been selected for presentation at the major conference of the Solid-State Circuits Society in the United States next February, the organizers said November 22.

The papers cover areas including advanced nanometer processes, green energy applications and architectural improvement, according to the International Solid-State Circuits Conference (ISSCC).

They were selected from National Taiwan University, National Tsing Hua University, National Cheng Kung University and National Chung Cheng University, among others.

From the local private sector, a paper on wireless transmission will be presented by MediaTek Inc., while Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing Company Ltd and Macronix International Co., Ltd will also make presentations.
