This past weekend saw [\[url=http://www.airsneaker.co.uk/nike-air-max-90-c-115/\]](http://www.airsneaker.co.uk/nike-air-max-90-c-115/)nike air max 90 sale[\[url\]](#) a number of awesome exclusives and rarities, but of course you can't top the Nike Mags. It wasn't enough to just walk around in them, but we have a hard time believing this Back to the Future prop could withstand the rigorous cutting, slashing, and jumping on a hardwood gym floor. Apparently the Tinker Hatfield creation withstood the test, and that's without the patented power laces. We're still waiting on a release announcement for the Nike Mag later this year, but would you ever hoop in the pair? Let us know in the comments section. Foamposite fans are ready for the next release of their favorite shoe, dropping soon in the clean luxury belt and handbag brands (that we can't name) color scheme. Earlier this year you saw the black version of the Nike Air Foamposite Pro with burgundy and green accents and a gum sole, but now the look goes lighter in white.

You'll also be able to add glowing features to almost every part of the shoe, including the outsole and laces. Check out a few examples here, and get started on your own pair at

It's about time Nike added some new design options for the Air Huarache on NIKEiD, right? After launching the shoe on NIKEiD for the first time earlier this year, Nike has made available a fleece option as well as a snakeskin option to give the shoes a more lifestyle appeal. The color options have been altered a tad, so we'll just say it's definitely worth your time to head over to NIKEiD and build out some new designs of the Huaraches. Check out our snakeskin and fleece options below and get to work on NIKEiD. Nike Basketball is going strong with kids-exclusive releases this Summer.

These will arrive at select New Balance retailers like Napes on July 27th, so get a first detailed look below. As a part of the Barney's New York 2015 Sole Series, adidas Originals is back with another collaborative effort atop the adidas Stan Smith. The upscale fashion house has dipped their toes in the sneaker world as of late. You might remember the hit or miss nature of the Onitsuka Tiger Buffalo Plaid release or even the surprising glow in the dark New Balance 1700. Both of those collaborations seemed surprisingly busy for Barney's. This Stan Smith doesn't try to do too much, as a premium black leather defers the three stripe branding for a crisp metallic gold Barney's insignia on the tongue. Available today for $150.

Yesterday we got a preview of the New Balance 1600 Mesh in an enticing black and gum, but just in case you were looking for a more traditional construction of one of NB's classic runners, then this New Balance 1600 Pinball could be for you. Based on the eye-catching colors of retro [\[url=http://www.airsneaker.co.uk/nike-air-max-90-c-115/\]](http://www.airsneaker.co.uk/nike-air-max-90-c-115/)nike air max 90 black[\[url\]](#) pinball machines, the running model sees a splash of vibrant red suede on the upper while hits of black and purple contrast throughout. What results is a uniquely head-turning take on the silhouette complete with a lifestyle aesthetic outfitted with Abzorb cushioning for an extra comfortable ride. Available today. Simplified but even more premium at the same time, the New Balance 996 Decon features the classic running silhouette you know and love in slimmed down two-piece nubuck upper. Without all the stitching and overlays, the shoe relies on strategic embossing and [\[url=http://www.airsneaker.co.uk/nike-air-max-90-c-115/nike-air-max-90-mens-c-115_118/\]](http://www.airsneaker.co.uk/nike-air-max-90-c-115/nike-air-max-90-mens-c-115_118/)nike air max 90 mens[\[url\]](#) perforations to achieve the lines of the original 996.
